For over 50 years, SIT safety and regulation devices have been chosen by appliance manufacturers to equip a great number of boilers, stoves, water heaters, ovens, fryers, large kitchens and other gas appliances.

When a spare is necessary, SIT's policy is to ensure that all their Customers will be able to replace any device with the same model or with others of equivalent characteristics.

As well as the more complex multifunctional controls, a considerable series of accessories is made available to the Customer for a wide range of applications: normal or interrupted thermocouples, connectors, piezo-electric and electronic igniters, detection and ignition probes, connection fittings, flanges and so forth. With a view to our service to customers, the Product Line catalogue permits fast and correct identification of the most suitable product for your needs.
